

CUIABANA SAUSAGE

The cattle herd in Brazil is immense, being among the largest in the world. According to the Brazilian Institute of Geography and Statistics, in 2019 the number was 214.9 million head of cattle, which represents about one fifth of all cattle in the world.

Mato Grosso is one of the main centers of bovine creation, maybe that's why the Cuiabana sausage has its original recipe from this region. However, it was in the interior of São Paulo that the recipe gained fame and spread throughout the country.

Cuiabana sausage is made with beef, curd cheese, milk, salt, black pepper and sweet pepper.

There are several variations for Cuiabana sausage, but the most characteristic ingredients are cheese, milk and pepper.
